

The Inclusion, Equity, and Social Action Committee

Project TA101: Personal Transactional Analysis Tools For Social Transformation

July 26, 2020

Dear Raquel Beeby,

“Project TA 101: Personal Transactional Analysis Tools for Social Transformation” is almost ready! It is an open-access, updated TA 101 online learning program to contribute to equity and inclusion in transactional analysis worldwide!

The IESA committee and several volunteers have been working to make this course freely available as a wonderful gift for the whole world to share current professional social applications of transactional analysis concepts. The course content is recognized by EATA and ITAA and has been possible through collaboration among ITAA, USATAA, and Southeast Institute (formerly FREE Fellowship for Racial and Economic Equality).

The program includes:

- 8 modules divided into short topic sections of the professional videos recorded at the official TA 101, presented at the 2019 “Inclusion, Equality, OK-ness: Healing Divisions in our World” TA conference in Raleigh, NC, USA, taught by Vann Joines, Valerie Batts, Felipe Garcia, and Graham Barnes.
- A custom learning guide.
- An accessible online discussion group.
- Ways to connect with our global TA community.

We want you to have advance notice that this program will be available in August, 2020 so that you may have the opportunity to share it with your community.

Our goal is to contribute to a new culture of Transactional Analysis education in the 21st Century! We want as many people as possible from as many countries as possible to share these TA tools for personal development, professional growth and social change.

Eric Berne gave us the superb gift of Transactional Analysis and it is our commitment to share it. This project models win/win collaboration among TA organizations through sharing direct hyperlinks to course components with ITAA.

Transactional analysts know the basic principles of worth, value, and dignity of every human being are more important than ever in today’s world so you have our permission to share this gift through your association website. Now you can turn TA philosophy and principles into action by disseminating transactional analysis around the world.

Please consider who you know that could benefit from this open-access, professional quality transactional analysis education. This advance notice that the program will be available in August, 2020 will let you prepare to share it with your community just as soon as it is ready.

In our current moment, we are keenly aware of TA’s relevance and value for social and cultural change! For more information you can check out the Project TA 101 page at web page link below. As our launch date nears, we will contact you again with further details about the program and ways that you can share it.

Warm regards,

Janice Dowson for the IESA Committee, Reiko True, Inger Acking, Bob Hempel

For more information about the course you can contact us at:

follow this link to the project page which will include more information about the course in July, and courseware links when the project launches at:

<https://www.usataa.org/circles-of-interest/social-justice-circle/project-ta-101/>